- The image displays four hand-drawn sketches of mobile app screens for a 'Wine' application. Each screen is labeled 'Wine' at the top. The sketches are arranged in a 2x2 grid. Each screen features a search bar, a list of items, and a filter icon. The items are represented by icons and text, with some text being partially obscured or illegible due to the hand-drawn nature of the sketches. The sketches are labeled 'Wine', 'Wine', 'Wine', and 'Wine'.

LOW FIDELTY PROTO

Our Visual Map

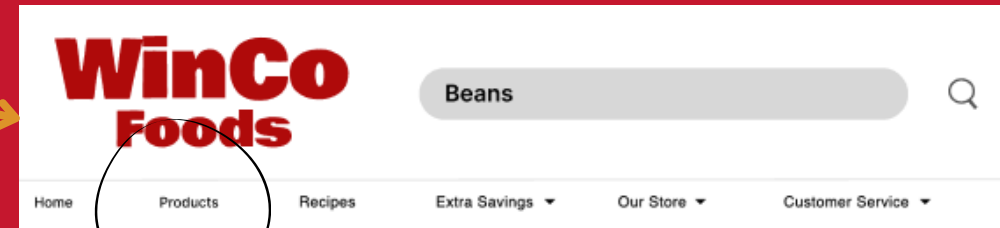

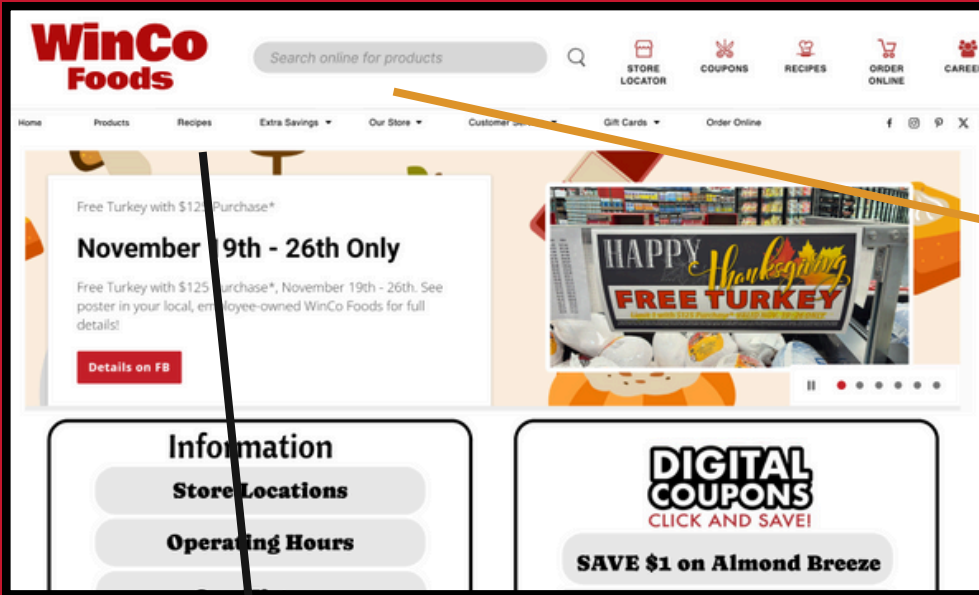

What is the most friendly way to guide users through the catalog for WinCo?

- List instead of cart
- Buttons to show info on products
- Maintaining ease-of-navigation while in the "list" section

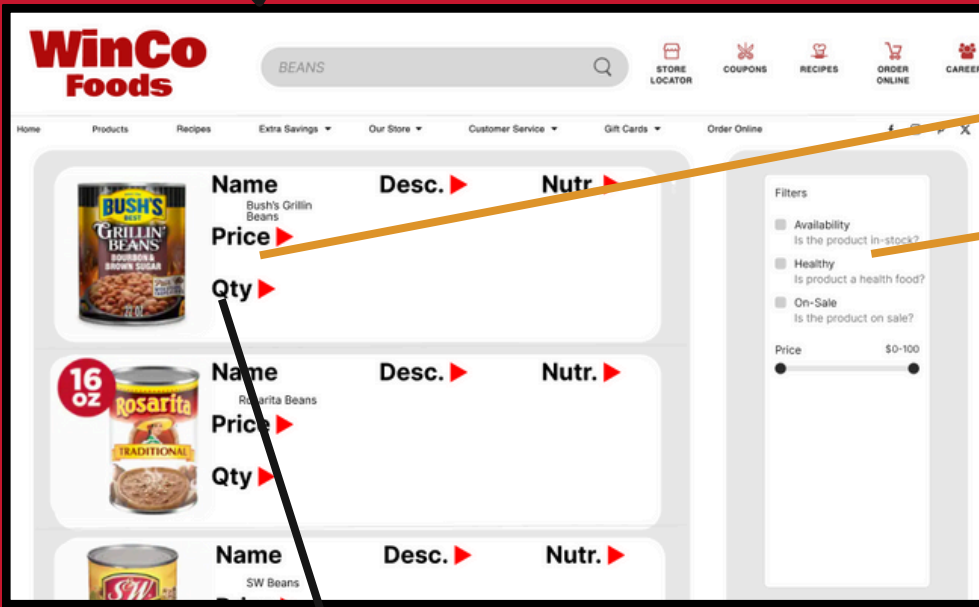

MEDIUM FIDELITY PROTO

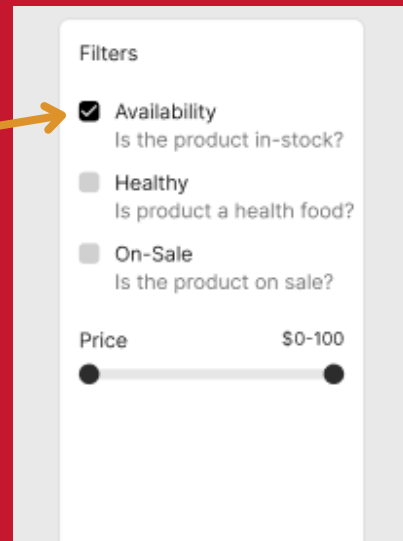

- Created on Figma
- Allowed Users to search for products, look at information, and add to a list
- Chose to do a list instead of a cart because we chose not to include a purchase option

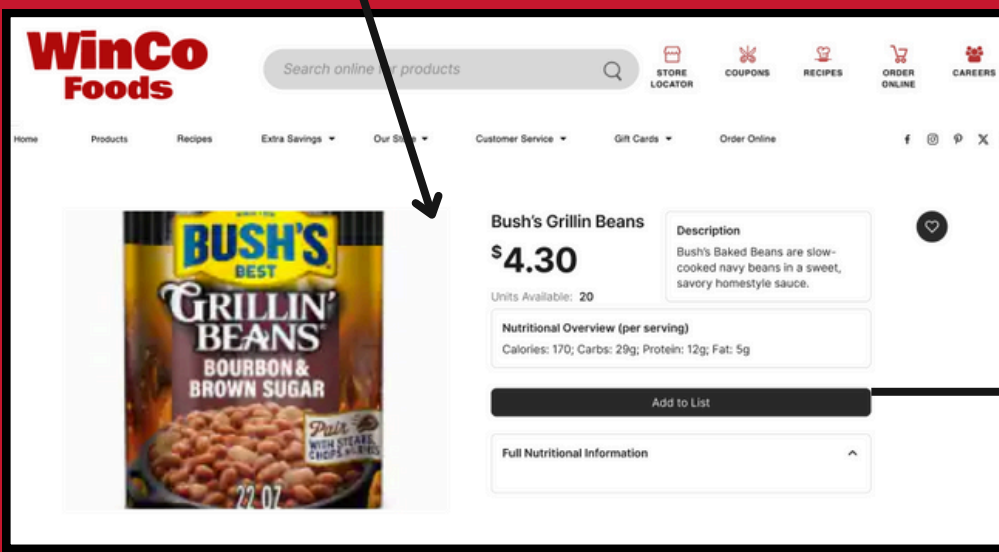

Search for product name or browse product categories

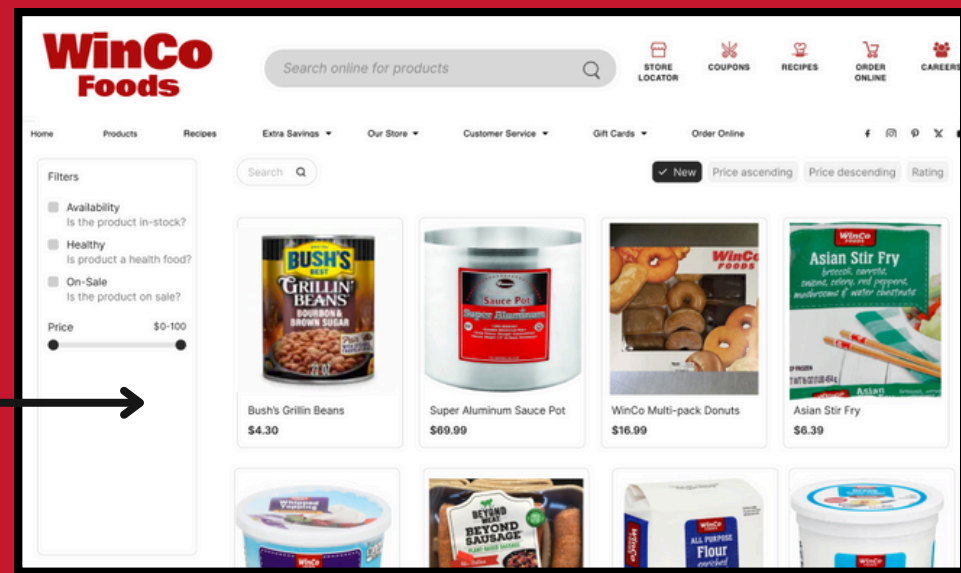

Once on product page user can access information on price and quantity or use filters to help thier search

product information

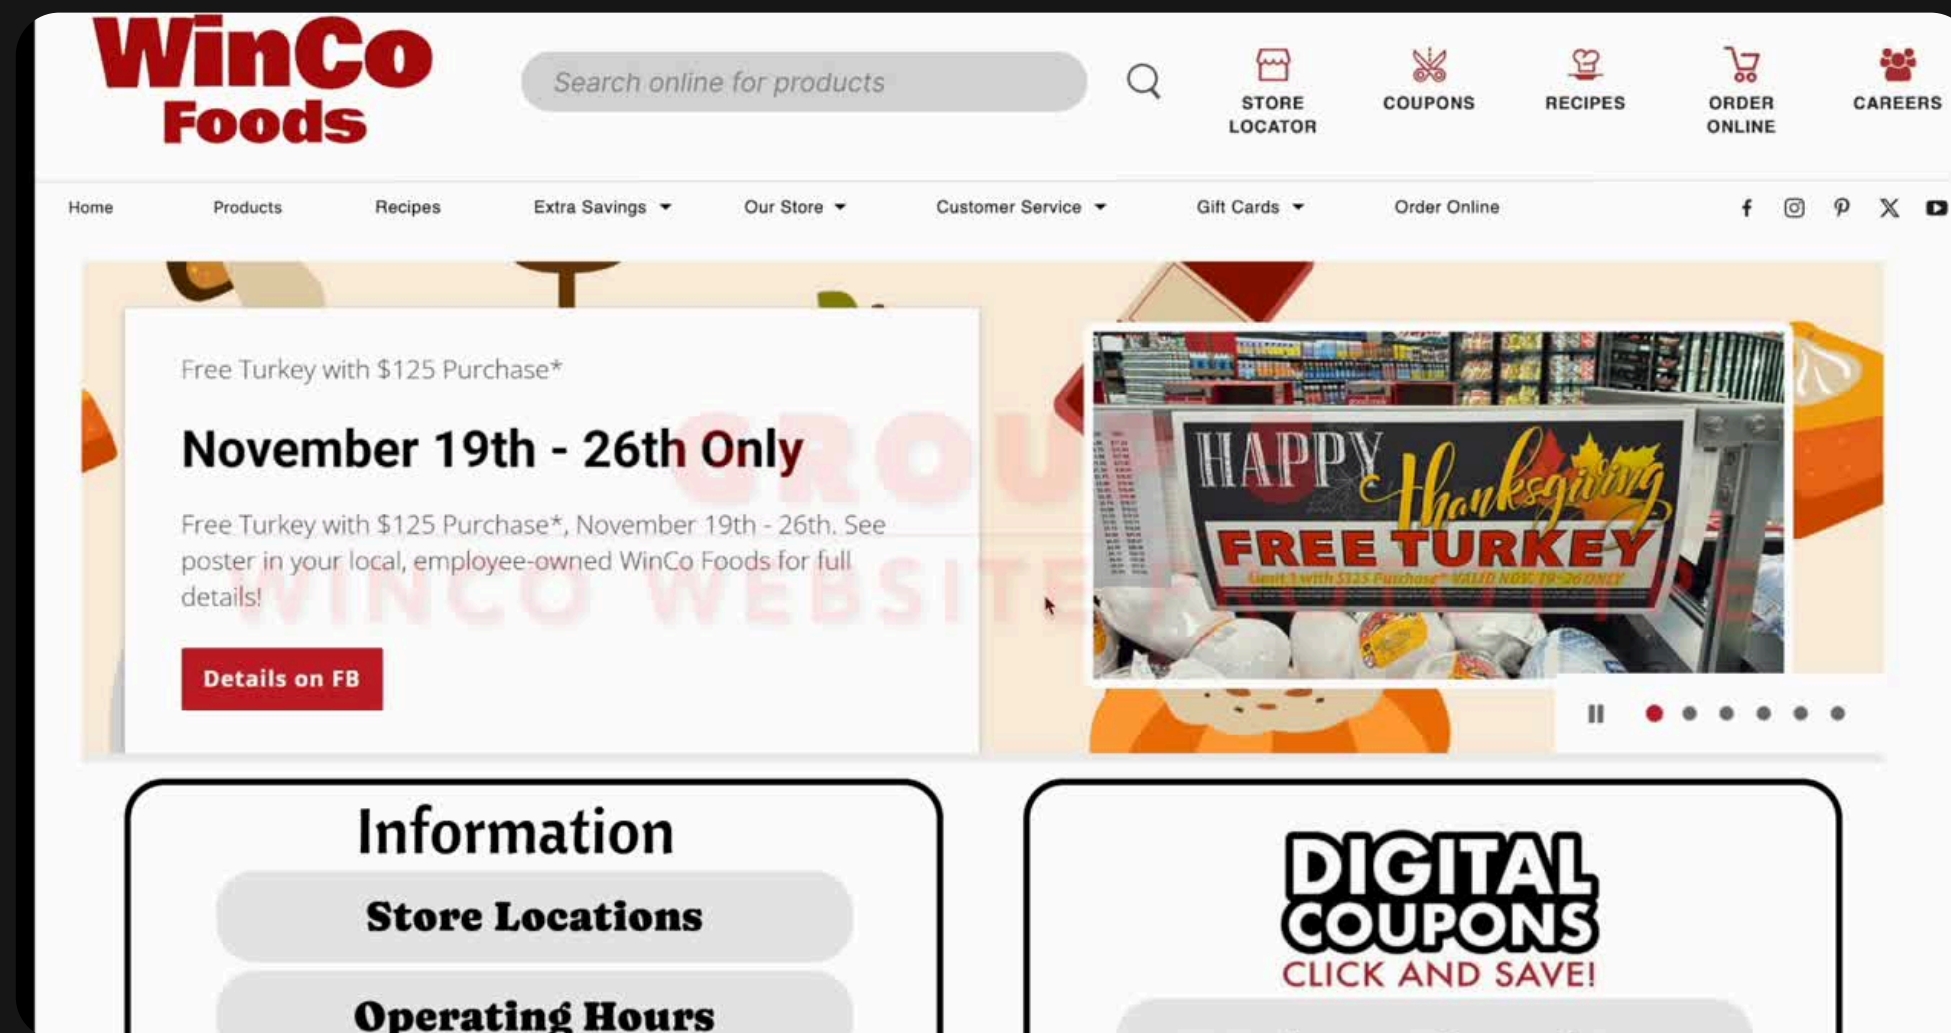

list access

REFLECTION

What we've learned in this course...

Design thinking isn't just about aesthetics or coming up with creative ideas. We learned that it's actually more about human-centered value creation.

Finding the right problem › for the right people › with the right solution.

REFLECTION

Design Thinking in Design Innovation

Design Efforts

- Research: Gather insight from real user experiences
- Empathy: Understanding the problem
- Ideation: Brainstorming, HMW, Sketching
- Prototyping: Low & Medium-fidelity

THANK YOU
